

Southington Scene

Follow the path to the Italian American Festival.

Celebrating Heritage

Center Street was a hubbub of Italian pride last weekend as the annual Italian-American Festival was held.

The festival is sponsored by the UNICO Club, Sons of Italy and the Chamber of Commerce, with Stop & Shop as the major host.

Despite a rainy beginning and a hot and humid Saturday and Sunday, officials considered the event, now in its sixth year a success.

The festival draws people from all over the state. The food is a major highlight.

Photos by
Tammi Knapik

The Italian Rosary Society.

Above, Antonio Galanto takes a ride on the swings.

Jonathan Pilsbury, 3, gets his face painted.

At right Loonie the Clown makes balloon art.

Carmine Votino

Katrina Secor is wearing her Italian pride on her head as she eats some food.

Michelia Gagliardi and Randy Winkler serve fried dough balls from Gagliardi Pizza.